

3. One would expect to observe the melting of an upper layer of permafrost in this climatic type:
- polar tundra
 - polar ice cap
 - humid continental with warm summers
 - marine
 - humid subtropical
4. A city that would most likely experience a dry summer is:
- Baltimore, Maryland
 - Chicago, Illinois
 - San Francisco, California
5. This region of the world experiences the lowest average temperatures:
- the Arctic
 - Northern Siberia
 - Northern Canada
 - Alaska
 - the Antarctic
6. This climatic type experiences cool, wet winters and mild to hot, dry summers:
- humid continental
 - tropical wet-and-dry
 - humid subtropical
 - Mediterranean
 - tropical monsoon
7. The highest temperatures in the world are normally experienced with this climatic type:
- tropical moist climates
 - dry climates
 - humid subtropical climates
 - humid continental climates
 - highland climates
8. Moist continental (D) climates are not observed in:
- Canada
 - Alaska
 - Europe
 - the northern plains of the United States
 - South America